Dreckly Productions was formed in 2008 by choreographer Jennifer Fletcher and jazz musician Christopher Preece. They assembled a company comprising some of the finest young talent that the UK has to offer, in dance and music.

Dreckly's highly creative choreography blends both body and voice, and explores the surreal edge where narrative breaks down and gives way to pure movement. The work aims to be as honest as possible, discarding accepted forms and tone in pursuit of pure expression. The work is often comic, dark, quirky, ironic and always highly physical.

The musicians of Dreckly have a passion for exploring the capabilities of both acoustic and electronic instruments. They combine detailed jazz improvising, the naïve sonic canvas of ambient electronica, and the deep groove of rock music.

Despite their youth, Dreckly Productions possess an impressive combined experience performing; from world famous companies such as Transitions and EDge, to prestigious music venues such as the Royal Albert Hall and Ronnie Scotts jazz club.
